Background and Policy Issues: A water management berm was constructed on the County land for the flood protection for the Mirasol residential project while maintaining water levels appropriate for the 10,389-acre Loxahatchee Slough Natural Area in 2002. These activities were authorized by Temporary Water Management Easement (R2002-0583) and Construction Agreement (R2002-0584). As it was thought that the berm in the Natural Area would be temporary, provisions were made to require Taylor to remove the berm and to restore the footprint of the berm area once the G-160 structure became operational or upon expiration of the Easement and Agreement, whichever came first. A bond (Bond No. 29-07-23) in the amount of $9,400.00 is held by Palm Beach County to ensure rehabilitation of the berm removal area. The Easement and Agreement were expired April 16, 2007.

It was decided that a License Agreement (R2010-0207) was the appropriate vehicle to continue the expired Easement and Agreement and the License was approved by the BCC on February 2, 2010. The License was not executed by Northern.

Since then, it has become increasingly apparent that the temporary berm will become obsolete in the foreseeable future. Even if the G-160 structure were to become fully operational, which seems unlikely in the near term, presence of the berm will continue to protect against water level fluctuations in the C-18 canal.

Should it be decided in the future that the berm should indeed be removed, it would be the County's responsibility, as landowner, to do so.
