Scope of Work
Palm Beach County Hunger Relief/Supply Chain Analysis

Overview:

Recognizing the unacceptable consequences of local hunger, the United Way of Palm Beach County, the Palm Beach County Commissioners, backed by a group of 183 organizations, convened the Hunger Relief Project and identified the need to create a comprehensive plan to reduce local hunger. The Hunger Relief Plan for Palm Beach County was released in October 2015. This contract is to address goal #3 in reducing hunger in the Glades community through intensive, focused outreach and attention.

Feeding Florida and FSC Concepts are prepared to take on the challenge of addressing food insecurity in the Palm Beach County; specifically regarding distribution of fresh produce to needy households in the middle of Florida's most robust agricultural region. This will be done using proven supply chain techniques, which are designed to approach the issues using available data in the most efficient manner possible. Creation of a demand model for the area, quantification of existing food supply gaps, development of food flow metrics, interacting with supply partners and making specific supply chain recommendations are all a part of the solution that we will provide.

The Glades Area Pantry Survey Report issued in October 2016 provides an overview of the Glades hunger relief efforts in relation to 16 sites located in one of the most agriculturally rich regions of Florida.

The scope of work will encompass the following phases of activity.

Phase 1: Assess the existing supply chain

- The Agency shall review the existing hunger relief efforts. This will require a detailed look at the data behind the Glades Pantry Survey Report and an assessment of all agencies currently operating in the county. The general references in the report will be further investigated, along with other Palm Beach agency food throughput data. This will result in metrics being developed for each site which will help determine the site's ability to service their respective area.
- The Agency shall review pounds per person, pounds per day, and servings per person, etc. as a technique to evaluate current service levels. The Agency shall complete an analysis of all inbound and outbound food, particularly fresh produce in order to have the best understanding of how food is flowing to clients.
- The Agency shall create a supply chain model for each site which can help us see any hurdles that needs to be addressed. It is important to drive towards the alignment of resources and need. Supply chain imbalances appear to be creating the current difficulties. It is proposed that this project focus on critical imbalances that are truly impeding fresh food flowing to clients.

Phase 2: Demand analysis

- The Agency shall map potential client volume to agency capacity-to-serve in order to determine the essential element in determining needed improvements.
- The Agency shall conduct a food requirement analysis down to the serving level in order to determine what is truly needed to address food insecurity. Each of the notations in the survey - for example, 25% of the pantries turning away clients – must be quantified in order to establish the true level of demand. If this situation is unique to the Glades area or more prevalent in other areas of the county, this will need to be included in the supply/demand balancing work.
- Based on client information, the Agency shall build a bottoms-up model of food needs in order to establish the volumes of food, by type, that need to be procured and the size of the pipeline that will be needed to serve them. “Net Requirements” is intended to address a more accurate food need, considering F/R meal programs with schools in the area and SNAP benefits that are already coming into the area. Netting off the food volumes provided via these other pipelines will help to establish the true need that is to be serviced through the agency network.
- The Agency shall create a profile of what the maximum demand should be for the area that will help to frame the scope of the solution and help to visualize what enhancements may be needed in each area of the county.

Phase 3: Supply analysis

- The Agency shall create a GAP Analysis including the most accurate demand figures and current supply inputs. The food banks listed in the survey are going to be the initial source of supply data and will help us to assess inbound food flow by type, amount, frequency and destination. The goal of this project will be to tell the source points – very specifically – what is needed to bridge the supply/demand gap and eliminate imbalances in the food flow. This will allow them to be more focused in their agency interactions so that waste is minimized at both levels.
- The Agency shall provide a list of recommendations in determining if there should be (and how much) to increase storage/distribution facilities. If the goal is to get food to the clients, storage should be a minimal, temporary stop on the way. Increasing food velocity will help to close the gap faster and minimize infrastructure requirements.
- The Agency shall create a comprehensive fresh produce model to satisfy the supply requirements of the region. The supply side of the solution must also consider crop specific data in terms of volumes and seasonality.
- The Agency shall create a Communication Plan to the agencies of this model of the distribution activities.
