THOMAS WESOLEK – ASSISTANT FIRE MARSHAL

PROFESSIONAL
SUMMARY

For the last twenty years I have served the community of West Palm Beach as a dedicated employee of the Fire Department. As a child my school provided programs such as Scouting that exposed me to the values and personal rewards of community service. I was a competitive swimmer in high school and grew up in Michigan surrounded by the Great Lakes and many Inland lakes, waterways and aquatic centers that led to me being a lifeguard. I also became a water safety instructor and lifeguard instructor in my teenage years. Standing watch at the water’s edge grew into a career managing aquatic centers and programs prior to becoming an EMT and Firefighter. I find joy and purpose in both serving the public as a first responder and teaching others the skills to be prepared for emergency situations both at home and professionally. Since 1991 I have taught thousands of individuals CPR and first aid skills as an instructor for both the American Red Cross and American Heart Association. Most of this community training has been pro-bono as part of the mission to give others the knowledge to save lives. Currently as an Operations Captain for the West Palm Beach Fire Department I serve as the Assistant Fire Marshal. Our Division of Fire Prevention is the tip of the spear when it comes to making the community safer for those who live and work here, the many visitors to our growing City and the firefighters who respond to calls for assistance and life-threatening situations every day. I look forward to any opportunities I may be given to pay it back to a community which has given me and my family a job I am proud to do every day and a professional career of service as a firefighter and paramedic.
